Who am I/ What I do

- Dr Tyrone Bowes (experienced scientist)
- Personal interest in using DNA to uncover my own ancestral origins.
- Set up the Irish Origenes website to help others rediscover their Irish ancestry using only their DNA.
- I do Personalised Case Study reports (free consultation), sell a range of Irish themed maps from the Irish Origenes website, surname studies, and write articles for various magazines
- DNA does not lie!
- Launched Irish Origenes in June 2011
- Launched Scottish and English Origenes in 2012,
- Welsh Origenes will be launched in 2014?

There are 3 main commercial ancestral DNA tests

mtDNA; to reveal people with whom you share a common female ancestor

Y-DNA; to reveal people with whom you share a common male ancestor

Autosomal DNA test; to reveal shared male and female ancestry

	Commercial ancestral DNA test
	mtDNA	Autosomal	Y-DNA
DNA examined	mitochondrial	all	Y chromosome
Who can take this DNA test?	males and females	males and females	males only
Pinpointing a geographical origin (how specific is it?)	large geographical region	not applicable	very specific (to within a 5 mile radius)
Time Scale (to shared ancestry)	tens of thousands of years	150-200 years	when surnames became common (e.g. 1000 years ago in Britain)
Can the link to an area be confirmed?	Yes	Yes	Yes

DNA testing is painless
Swab the cells and return it to the DNA testing company

The Y-DNA test

- The test typically looks at 37 or 67 bits (or Markers) on the Y chromosome.
- The company compares these markers to others on their database who have also taken the Y-DNA test
- The more of the markers you share with someone the closer your shared ancestor lived (e.g brothers would match at 37/37 or 67/67 markers)

What will the DNA reveal about your Irish origins?

People with Irish ancestry

60% Gael (pre-Christian Celtic tribes)

1-2% Viking

12-15% Norman (English/Welsh)

2-5% Scots Gallowglass

20% 17th Century Plantation
Scots and English

Keep an open mind!!!!!!!

This is what your DNA test results will look like

- Mr Dooley shares ancestry with other Dooleys (who tested independently of him)
- Mr Dooley is descended from a 'Dooley-Adam;' the first to pick that surname who lived approximately 1000 years ago!
- These surnames are not random! Some recur as genetic matches!
- How can one share common ancestry with people with different surnames?
- These recurring surnames arose among a tribal group of related males living in a specific location
- Plot where those recurring surnames are found in early census data and you'll reveal an area common to all! Or where the Dooley-Adam lived 1000 years ago!

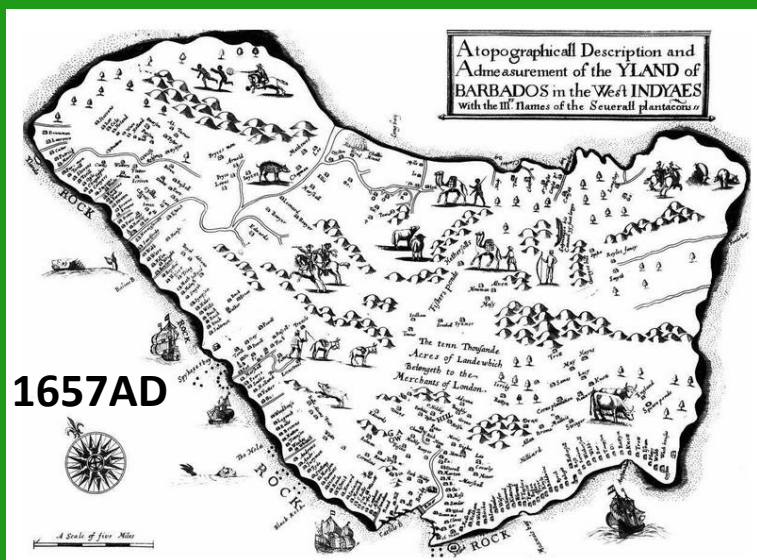

Identify all the surnames that recur as close genetic matches!!

From the "Calandar of Papal Registers:

Papal Letters vol. xv 1484-1492" the index lists three men surnamed "O Bogue (OBinyde, Oboe, Obuy)"

1 - John, Canon of Aghmacart, to have rectory of Kildellig, number 688.

2 - Patrick, priest of Ossory diocese, to have rectory of Rathsaran and vicarage of Erke, number 674 (dated 19 April 1491, states "Patrick Obinyde, priest, d. Ossory", was the illigitimate son of unmarried parents. Apparently he also had a family).

3 - William, priest of Lismore diocese, to have vicarage of Rathdonan, number 358 (dated 25 February 1489)

The Cantreds of Ely O'Carroll poem by O'Heerin from 1420 describes the Kingdom of O'Carroll from the time of Brian Boru (1014AD).

"Lords to whom stoop the nuts (a very odd expression)

Are the O'Carrolls of the Plain of Birra
King (Kings?) of Ely to the sweet Bloyma;
Most hospitable mansion in Ireland.

Eight tuathas (Cantreds) eight chiefs there are Under the King of Ely - land of cattle
Brave the host in threatening (tuar) an incursion
That yellow-waving-haired army.

O'Flanigan of the snowy hand
Rules over all the Kinel Arga (1)
Of the race of Teige, son of Kian of Crinna (1 1/2)
He dwells at hospitable Ardlick Oilill.

Over the Clan Rooney of the flowery roads
That sweet, cleared, smooth streamed country
That fair bordered, wine festive cantred
Rules Mag Corcran of the numerous tribe.

O'Hegan of Crioich Chein,
Is over the Clan Ionmhainen of smooth land
A cantred which showers a feast on every spot (2)
And a dew of honey on every cluster (pod).

The great cantred of the vigorous Clan Maonaigh

Is hereditary to O'Dooley (3)

This tribe are brave retainers

Placed at the breast of the clear streamed Bloyma.

A chief whose trees bear white nuts
Is over the Clan Conligan of heavy fruit
Twig of Biorra of Elyan tribe (4)
Mac Guilfoyle of the fair-white mansion.

Hy Deki, the goodly cantred of hills,
The wide, fair-mansioned land, (do dluthaigh duibh)
A fruitful land which adhered to them
Is O'Banan's Patrimonial (ancestral) inheritance (5)

Their country has been mightily peopled
By the O'Meaghers of Crioich Keerin (6)
Tribe of (at) the foot of Bearnan Eile (7)
No shame to recount their exploits.

Tuath Faralt (8) of the cleared woods
Is the inheritance of O'Hailchen,
A fair mansioned plain of populous tribe,
Like the land of Taillteann, dry, tho' streamy.

USE YOUR DNA TO REDISCOVER YOUR IRISH HERITAGE

A commercial 37 marker Y chromosome DNA test will potentially provide one with the names of many hundreds of individuals with whom one shares a common male ancestor, but what often perplexes people is how one can match many individuals with different surnames? The answer is quite simple. Roughly 1,200 years ago one's direct medieval male ancestor, the first for example to call himself 'Bowe' was living in close proximity to others with whom he was
